

This House Believes That Children Should Only Get Pocket Money If They Do Their Chores

Fact: In an average home, parents do around 2 hours of housework (cooking, cleaning, and other chores) per day

Fact: In 2013, the average amount of pocket money a child received every week was £6.50

Chore	How much pocket money should you get for doing it?
Washing up
Vacuum cleaning
Tidying
Feeding the dog
Taking the rubbish out

- Do you get pocket money? Do you have to anything for it?
- Why do parents give their children pocket money?
- How much pocket money do you get? Do all the children in your class get the same amount?
- Should children do more chores?
- Would you be more likely to do you chores if you got money for doing them?
- Is it fair to get children to do more chores?
- Do adults get pocket money?
- Would working for your pocket money make you more responsible?
- Do you work hard in school? Should your evenings and weekends be spent relaxing?
- Can all parents afford to give their children pocket money?
- Who does the chores in your house?
- What different chores are there in your house?
- Would older children have to do more difficult chores?