

This House Would Ban Homework

Fact: Teachers spend anything from 2 to 5 hours a day planning lessons and marking books - and that isn't including the 6 hours a day they spend teaching you!

Fact: In primary school, you spend about 635 hours a year in school

Examples of Homework:

- Spellings
- Practice Times Tables
- Research Family Tree
- Science Project
- What else?

- Do you enjoy homework? Why?
- What kind of homework do you have to do?
- Do you have homework for every subject?
- Do grown ups have to do homework?
- Is homework an important way to support the learning you do in school?
- Should you spend your time at home relaxing?
- What else could you do with all the time you currently spend doing homework?
- Does homework make you take charge of your learning?
- Does homework let parents learn more about what their children are doing at school?
- Does homework help us improve at subjects we might find difficult?
- Do older children have more or less homework than primary school children?